Hydraulic Fracturing Straddle Packer and Impression Packer System for In-situ Stress Measurement (Items 1 to 5)

Ite N	em O	Detailed Specification
1	HF	HF Straddle Packer system (suitable for use in NX-Size borehole of Finished Diameter 76 mm)
	wit A	The overall length of the borehole apparatus (BHA) including Automatic Dump Valve (item 2), two straddle packers, an injection zone and the downhole gauge should be between 1500-2700 mm approximately
	В	Outer diameter of the packers should be between 69-71 mm to allow smooth running of the BHA in the NX-size borehole
	С	The metal parts of the straddle system should be made of heat treated 4140 Carbon steel or an equivalent material of similar properties and non-corrosive in nature
	D	Injection unit length: 150-500 mm
	Е	Under differential pressure against Inflation, the packer burst pressure should have limiting value of about 80 MPa or more.
	F	The upper and lower packers of the HF straddle should be interchangeable as well as it should be replaceable.
		The packers should deflate faster and recover to their original diameter, enabling them to be run with smaller radial clearance.
	G	The straddle should accompany a downhole pressure transducer housed in water-tight enclosure for logging the pressure-time activity of the hydraulic fracturing process on a chip which can be downloaded into PC-computer after the straddle system is taken out of the borehole.
	Н	The injection line of the straddle system should have suitable arrangement for connecting push rods of 1 1/4 inch external diameter (item 7). Packer diameter 69-71 mm and overall length 1500-2700 mm Packer crimp Injection zone / Frac interval 150-500mm Auto dump Valve Normal Valve Normal Valve Normal Valve Normal NPT Normal
	I	Suitable pipe wrench and other tools along with a separate field tool box should be provided for dismantling, cleaning and assembling the components of the straddle system.
	J	Suitable steel hollow tube of 76 mm Internal Diameter should be provided to test the inflation and deflation of the HF Straddle systems under pressure up to 400 bars.
	K	The Packer Element should be made of Nylon/Rubber and steel wire reinforced.
	L	A suitable slot/notch should be designed in the straddle system with a C-plate arrangement (see figure below) to help the assembly during rigging up and also during lowering in the borehole. C-Plate may also be provided along with the items.

The Figure below is helpful to understand the requirements. Auto dump valve for release of water from packer (compatible to Item 1)

Section View

A The straddle system should accompany an auto dump valve for use in watery vertical boreholes. The purpose of the auto dump valve is to avoid pressure build up in the packers due to the water column in the inflation line. In the absence of auto dump valve the water column in the inflation line will keep the packers in inflated position, causing trouble in retrieval of straddle system from the borehole. As soon as the water is vented out from the inflation line, the auto dump valve must act to release the water from the packer and deflate it to its normal diameter enabling the straddle system to be removed out of the borehole without any trouble.

Replacement Packer elements as per Item 1: 4 Nos. additional

HF Impression Packer System

- A The HF Impression packer should be designed for taking impression of the fracture created during hydraulic fracturing process for determination of in situ stress in rock having a rubber length of about 750 mm.
- B The diameter of the packers should be between 69 mm and 71 mm for use in NX-size core drilled boreholes of finished diameter 76 mm. The packers should deflate faster and recover to their original diameter, enabling them to be run in smaller radial clearance.

Tender No.: ME/PRJ/100/19-20 Dated: 29 July 2019 The packer should be wrapped with a layer of soft rubber for taking impression of fracture Under differential pressure against Inflation, the packer burst pressure should have limiting value of about 80 MPa (800 bars) or more. The straddle system should accompany an auto dump valve for use in watery vertical boreholes. The purpose of the auto dump valve is to avoid pressure build up in the packers due to the water column in the inflation line. In the absence of auto dump valve the water column in the inflation line will keep the packers in inflated position, causing trouble in retrieval of straddle system from the borehole. As soon as the water is vented out from the inflation line at surface, the auto dump valve must act to release the water from the packer and deflate it to its normal diameter enabling the straddle system to be removed out of the borehole without any trouble. The straddle system should have suitable arrangement for connecting push rods (Item 7) inch external diameter. Packer Rubber length 750 mm crimp Auto dump Impression Packer (steel wire reinforced nylon/rubber element) wrapped with soft rubber. valve Orientation BHA diameter 69-71 mm 1/4 inch Packer tool adapter inflation line Sliding end 1 1/4 inch internal NPT thread for sub aluminium tube push rod ROCK STRESS TESTING - IMPRESSION STRADDLE SYSTEM NPT: National Pipe Thread The other end of the straddle system should have suitable arrangement for connecting Orientation tool (Item-6) to acquire the in-hole magnetic orientation of the HF impression straddle. Suitable pipe wrench and other tools along with a separate field tool box should be provided for dismantling, cleaning and assembling the components of the HF Impression straddle system. 5 Replacement HF Impression Packer System: 2 No. The item should be compatible with Item-4 mentioned as above.
